This learning journey will provide students with an authentic learning experience. By engaging their senses of sight, touch and hearing, students will be able to witness how living conditions have been transformed in Singapore from the pre-1960s to the present day. The theme on public housing has been chosen to enable students to learn about the history of housing in Singapore and develop an understanding of how public housing in Singapore has changed through the years to meet the changing demands of the population. Students will also discover how public housing estates are self-contained and appreciate the successful strategies that help foster integrated communities. The students will learn about HDB's efforts to ensure Singapore's sustainability in creating quality homes for all in the future.

As the learning journey will end at 1.30 pm during the affected days, the students will be dismissed according to the normal dismissal procedures. Should you have further queries, please feel free to call or email your child's Form Teacher.

We look forward to your support.

Yours sincerely
